

Pike County Chamber Inducts New Directors and Installs New Officers for 2018

On January 24, 2018 the Pike County Chamber of Commerce held our Annual Installation Dinner and General Membership Meeting at The Best Western Inn at Hunt's Landing. Attorney John Stieh inducted our new Directors and installed the 2018 Executive Officers which included Aaron May, 1st Vice president, Jessica Black 2nd Vice President, Tamara Chant Secretary, Paul Brislin, Treasurer, Jack Boyle as a Director and Derek Bellinger as President. We are very thankful for the many members who attended and for all of our investors and supporters. During the time of year when many of us make personal New Year's resolutions, the Chamber leadership likewise outlined a new blueprint for the Chamber's role in community growth, the Pike Chamber's "2018 Commitment to the Community". This Commitment for 2018 includes a number of planned key actions:

- The Chamber will operate a visitor's center with the expectation that it will grow into a prominent community resource.
 - The Chamber will provide seminars and programs to address the issues faced by Pike County Businesses.
 - The Chamber will arrange for discussions on important governmental initiatives and legislation that could impact Chamber members.
 - The Chamber will look to identify and pursue partnerships that we believe will provide value to our members and to the business community.
 - The Chamber, through the Pike County Economic Development Authority, will issue economic data reports in 2018 that will be important for those interested in the economic progress of Pike County and to those who are looking for new business opportunities, as they arise.
- Pike County was blessed to have a group of pioneers of progress who founded the Chamber over 50 years ago to enhance the interest of businesses.
- In 2018 the Chamber will continue to look for ways to help create better connections, bring you more business; make you more visible and develop community leaders.
